SINBAD

A DOG’S LIFE

by Edwina
S I N B A D
A Dog’s Life
by Edwina

PUBLISHED IN NEW YORK BY COWARD-McCANN, INC.
IN THE YEAR 1930
Copyright, 1930, by COWARD-McCANN, INC.

All rights reserved

All of the pictures in this book have been copyrighted by Life Publishing Company

Printed in the U. S. A.
TO LILLE JANE WHO TAUGHT ME
WHAT I KNOW ABOUT DOGS
SINBAD
Was in bad
From Trinidad to Rome,
And Edwina's dog
'S in bad
Wherever he may roam.

This bit of verse gave Sinbad his name.
As for his reputation, that is clearly a thing which no puppy can or should be born with, and perhaps an explanation is due.

It was in the early days of 1928 that this little terrier of Edwina's made his first public appearance. He was born, brought up and sheltered between the friendly covers of Life.

As time went on he became such a familiar figure that a formal christening seemed to be in order, and Life invited its readers to suggest a name.
More than 8,000 were submitted. Curiously enough, "Sinbad" was suggested many times, but the first person to submit the name was Mr. George C. Glass of Indianapolis.

Like everybody and everything that is really humorous, Sinbad has that pathos which makes us want to weep for him, laugh at him and with him.
He is interested in parcels that come to the house.
He wants to unwrap them and with this innocent curiosity ends up by destroying the package and all. He is a great little fellow for getting on top of and into beds, when his feet always seem to be muddy. But he can't help this and why, oh why, the lady of the house should mind is more than he can figure out. After all, he is one of the family and is desperately hurt
when he is left out of anything.
He is forever and always trying to take an active part in the boys' ball game. Why shouldn't he snatch the ball in his teeth and make a concealed play as well as the third baseman? And all these things he does in a manner so engaging that pun¬ ishment is quite out of the question. The family can only shrug their shoulders and say "it is Sinbad after all and we can do nothing about it."

And so he will always remain "Sinbad," this very charming little creature. He is indeed fortun¬ ate in having Edwina portray his daily activities, and we willingly lend him to those readers who do not follow his whimsical doings each week in Life.

F. B. Mallory, Editor of Life.
SINBAD

"To My Valentine!"
SINBAD
Comfortable for the Night!
SINBAD
"The Line Is Busy!"
SINBAD
Spring Zephyrs!
SINBAD
The Trick.
SINBAD

"nd Printer $4 a Day!"
SINBAD
Day Dreams.
SINBAD

Is That So!
SINBAD
The Snapshot.
SINBAD

Play Ball.
SINBAD
Forgotten!
SINBAD
Of All th' Nervel
SINBAD

Th' One That Got Away!
SINBAD

And a Nice Time Was Had by All.
SINBAD
Let's Go!
SINBAD

No Trespassing.
SINBAD

"Well—That's That!"
SINBAD

C'm on in—th' Water's Fine!!
SINBAD

Darn That Fly!
SINBAD

Din’—y!

EDWIN SINBAD
Finders Keepers.
SINBAD

Black Magic!
SINBAD

Saturday interlude.
SINBAD

He's in Bad Again.
SINBAD

"Good Night!"
SINBAD
Afternoon Callers.
SINBAD
Watch Your Step!!
SINBAD
Welcome Home, All Is Forgiven.
SINBAD

"Extra! Extra! Daring Hold-up in Broad Daylight!"
SINBAD

Starting the Day Right!
SINBAD

"No Sir!!!"
SINBAD

"I'm Sorry."
SINBAD

No Co-operation.
SINBAD
Deep Stuff.
SINBAD

"Thanks for the Buggy Ride!"
SINBAD

A Fight to th' Finish!!!
SINBAD

"Do Not Open Until Christmas."
"Do Not Open Until Christmas" (Continued).
SINBAD

There Is a Santa Claus!